Where are the ninja?

1. Chapter 1

Cryptor's pov

Me and my nindroids were standing and awaiting the Overlord to come and address is on what we did and what we are to do. We heard footsteps. We see the Overlord. He stops in front of me.

"How are the prisoners?" He asked.

"They still refuse to tell the whereabouts of the others, but they will not be able to sneak into the city no matter what. My nindroids will patrol nonstop around the city just to make sure," I said

"Good. Make sure to get them to talk. I know they know where they are, you just have to get them to tell you," he said.

"I know, but they just won't talk. No matter what we do, they won't talk," I said

"...You have permission to do whatever it takes to get them to talk, so get them to talk, or you will be joining them," he said.

"Yes overlord," I said. He backs away from me a little.

"I want all nindroids available to patrol the city and everywhere in it, also make sure the civilians are not planning anything, the rest of you either help to get the prisoners to talk, or search outside the city for them, but you know there rules," he said.

"Yes overlord, never more than five outside at once," all the nindroids said.

"Good, now get to it," he said. All the nindroids went their separate ways. Except me.

"I think they meant to get captured," I said.

"What makes you think that?" He asked.

"Well they are ninja, they are not that easy to capture. Also how could we only find and capture two so easily and not find the others," I said.

"You have a point. But they can't do much, they are prisoners after all, along with the whole city," he said.

"I know, but I was wondering why they would be willing to get captured. What could they possibly have done?" I said.

"Maybe they really didn't mean to get captured, they just did so now the others are being a lot more careful now," he said.

"That does seem like a possibility," I said.

"It could go either way, but either way, those two are our prisoners," he said.

"I'll try to get them to talk, and now I'm allowed to do whatever it takes, so it should be no problem. They will tell me everything they know," I said.

"I hope so," he said. He walks away. I turn around and walk away. I can't wait to do whatever I want to them. I have been waiting for this moment ever since they first got captured. I go to where the prisoners are held. I see some nindroids standing just watching them. I walk up to their cage.

"We got great news. Well not great for you, in fact it is awful new to you, but great news for us. We get to do whatever we want to do to you now to make you talk. But I'll be nice, I'll just let you tell me everything you know right now and I won't hurt you that bad," I said. All I got for a response were glares.

"All right, torture it is," I said. Me and my nindroids laugh. I can't wait to find the other ninja and torture them too.

2. Chapter 2

Min-droid's pov

I am patrolling the city with a couple other nindroids. They don't trust me to patrol alone. No one does. One day I will patrol on my own. I just have to sneak away from them and go somewhere else and patrol all alone there. They underestimate me just because of my height. I will prove them wrong. I may be a little more than half their height, but I am twice as good as them. I will prove it to them. Then they will always let me patrol alone and not baby me. That would be great. They always baby me and it is so annoying! The nindroids won't let me be around the two prisoners either. Even General Cryptor won't let me! I'm also not allowed to be one of the nindroids to go out of the city and do stuff out there! The only thing I can do is patrol in the city while staying near nindroids. I don't even know why. Is it because I am short and they think I mess up all the time? They won't even let me try something different! They just assume I am awful at everything!â€|I look at the nindroids. They're not paying any attention to meâ€|I quietly walk away from them. I walk through the city. It is really an amazing city, but now everyone who lives here are prisoners now. So I guess it's not that amazing. I hear something. I go toward where I heard the sounds. It sounds like people talking. I peek past a wall and I see a few people. They seem innocent. I don't see them with any weaponsâ€|wait one of them has a weapon. I walk over to them.

"Hey!" I said. They look at me scared at first, but then I think they see how short I am because they start laughing.

"What do you want?" one of them asked.

"You know the rules," I replied.

"Do I?" he said. The others are still laughing at me a little.

"No weapons," I said.

"What are you going to do about it, Shorty?" another one said. I see now that they all have weapons now. There are only five of them, I can do what I need to.

"Give me your weapons," I said.

"Why should we?" another one of them asked.

"I am telling you nicely, give me your weapons," I said.

"Aww, he's so cute, telling us to give us out weapons, nicely. Not a very good nindroid if you ask me," one of them said. They leave me no choice. I point my laser gun at them.

"I was being nice, but you obviously don't care if we're nice or not. I like to try to be the one who kills for no reason, but now you leave me no choice. Now give me your weapons right now!" I yelled. They don't seem scared at all.

"And what is that, a toy gun?" one of them said.

"Why don't you tell me!" I yelled. I shoot the one who asked if my laser gun is a toy gun. They fall to the ground. He got hit in the heart. Direct hit, we were taught to aim there. Now they all seem scared. They grab their weapons.

"If you want our weapons, you will have to kill us!" one of them yelled.

"Well duh! Do you really think I won't kill you?! I already killed one of you! And I was going to have to kill you even if you gave me your weapons willingly!" I yelled. I will not be babied again! I refuse to be! I shoot all of them. They all fall to the ground. All got direct hits. They are all dead. I confiscate all their weapons. I do not need to be babied. At least now I have proof that I don't need to be babied. Now I just have to show the nindroids the proofâ€|once I find themâ€|. It can't be that hardâ€|right? Well I do know where they are, I just have to figure out where I am to find them. I don't recognize anything here though! Don't panic. I'm not lost. Only nindroids who need to be babied get lost. And I definitely don't have to be babied. I just killed five people, no baby could do that. Well standing here is not going to help. I think I know where I came from so I'll just go that way. That's a good idea, right? Right. I walk the way I think I came. I am going the right way, I recognize where I am so I just have to go to the part of the where the group of nindroids I was with are patrolling. After a couple of minutes I see a nindroid. I know he was part of my group because any other group would be a couple of miles from here.

"Hi, I'm back," I said.

"What do you mean your back?" he asked.

"You didn't notice I was gone? I went to go somewhere without you watching my every move," I said.

"I didn't. I highly doubt anyone else did either. And we wouldn't watch you if we weren't told to," he said.

"Yeah, I knowâ€|Anyways, I actually saw a few people," I said.

"Is that why you came back so soon, because you were scared?" he asked.

"If I was scared of them do you think I would have killed them?" I asked.

"You sometimes say that you killed someone when you really didn't," he replied.

"I know, but this time is different! I really did!" I said.

"Then show the proof," he said. I show him the weapons I confiscated. He seems shocked.

"You did that! All by yourself?" he asked.

Yes," I replied.

"How many were there?" he asked.

"It was a group of five. They all had weapons," I replied.

"Are they all dead?" he asked.

"Direct hits on all of them," I replied.

"â€|Impressive," he said.

"So do I still have to be babied?" I asked.

"We'll see," he replied.

"Why?! I killed five people! You still want to baby me!" I yelled.

"We don't choose if we baby you or not, General Cryptor does," he said. General Cryptor thinks I have to be babied?...Why?...What did I ever do that was so wrong that I have to constantly be watchedâ€|constantly told what to doâ€|constantlyâ€|babied. I can't ever choose what I want to do! Others always make that decision for me. Why? Why can't I make my own decisions? If it wasn't for me there is a possibility those people would have never been punished. They would be free to just run around the city doing whatever they want. And I still get punished! Why? I'm the only nindroid not allowed out of this city. It's like I'm being treated as a prisoner. If they told me what I ever did to deserve this then I wouldn't be so mad. But I don't know why? I have asked before, but no one would ever tell me. And I'll probably never know. There has to be a reason though, right?

â€|

Cryptor's pov

Well we did find out where the other ninja were. That was a couple days ago that they were there. But it doesn't hurt to look. If we don't find them though then we will punish the prisoners. The Overlord and I both agreed with that plan. I'm just waiting for my other nindroids to return and tell me about today. The nindroids who helped me torture the prisoners are going to see if they were lying or not. We needed them to go right away. And the rule is no more than five out of the city at once, so it's a perfect idea for them to go find the other ninja now. My nindroids who were patrolling should be back by now. Time to go see what they did today, and if it's anything interesting or important I tell the Overlord. Usually it's not that interesting. We found this person with this weapon and they were punished immediately. It's always the same. I go to where the nindroids are waiting. I stand in front of the nindroids.

"Anything interesting or important?" I asked.

"A group of five was spotted," one replied.

"Weapons?" I asked.

"Yes, all five had weapons," he replied.

"Were they all punished?" I asked.

"All of them were shot and killed, direct hits. All weapons were confiscated," he replied. This is why I love having my army. They do things rightâ€|well all of them do but Min-droid.

"Who were the ones who found and punished them?" I asked.

"Min-droid," he replied. Min-droid?! Now that is something interesting.

"Anyone else?" I asked.

"No, just him," he replied. Just Min-droidâ€|maybe I underestimated him. He can't just do one amazing thing though to earn my respect.

"Give me the weapons," I said. The nindroid hands me the weapons. They are very good weapons, we could use some like this. Those pathetic humans don't know how to even use weapons. They're basically worthless.

"Anything else?" I asked.

"People were spotted but none of them had any weapons," he replied. So Min-droid was the only one who killed people todayâ€|

"Any sign of the other ninja while patrolling outside the city?" I asked.

"No, everything was normal. No sign of anyone," a different nindroid replied. Well where the other ninja were last seen according to the prisoners, wasn't near the city.

"So earlier me and my nindroids tortured the prisoners, they told us where the other ninja are. I already sent the nindroids who helped me torture them to go and find them. If they aren't there then the prisoners will get punished even more. They are where we first fought the ninja, at that monastery outside the city. I will let you know if they find them or not. You are all also dismissedâ€|except Min-droid," I said. All the nindroids leave but Min-droid. I walk over to him.

"Soâ€|you single handedly punished five civilians who all had weapons?" I asked.

"Yes," he replied.

"So the nindroids _let_ you go wherever you wanted then, because last thing I knew you had to stay around them," I said.

"Well they didn't _let_ me, I just left them," he replied.

"And why did you leave them?" I asked.

"Because they never let me do anything I want! So I decided to just leave, it's not my fault they didn't notice I left," he replied. So because the nindroids have to watch him he did this. I'll have to ask the Overlord what he thinks. In one way I don't want to have him do whatever he wants, but in one way I do. He can take care of himself and actually be very useful. But he also didn't listen to what he was told to do. So he is a brat at times them. I don't know what to do.

"You can go now," I said.

"Do I still have to be babied?" he asked. Babied? He thinks I'm babying him? I am not!

"I don't know. I'll have to talk to the Overlord," I replied. He seems a little disappointed andâ€|.mad.

"â€|Fine," he said. He walks away. I go see the Overlord.

"How was today?" he asked.

"Good, kind of boring, but one very interesting thing," I said.

"It can't be that interesting can it?" he asked.

"I'll let you be the judge of that," I said.

"Ok, what?" he asked.

"Well a group of five was spotted. All of them had weapons," I replied.

"They're all dead right?" he asked.

"Yes, and all the weapons were confiscated," I replied.

"Good. So what was so interesting about it?" he asked.

"Min-droid was the one who killed them and confiscated all their weapons," I replied.

"Min-droid!? All by himself?" he asked.

"Surprisingly, yes," I replied.

"Perhaps we both underestimated his skills," he said.

"Yeah, I was thinking that too," I said.

"Keep an eye on him. I want to see what else he can do," he said.

"Yes, Overlord," I said.

"Anything else?" he asked.

"Min-droid also wanted to know if he can stop being 'babied'," I replied.

"Babied?" he asked.

"Min-droid considers him having to be around the other nindroids, not being able to be alone while patrolling, and not getting to choose what he wants to do is 'babying' him," I replied. "€|

"Keep an eye on him for a few days and you see if he needs to be 'babied' or not," he said.

"Yes, Overlord," I said.

"You are dismissed," he said. I leave. So I have to keep an eye on Min-droid. Weird. It's only for a few days though. I just hope he does not notice. What would he think if he noticed his general practically stalking him? What is the other nindroids see though?...I completely forgot. I can turn invisible! So it won't be hard at all to watch him. It will still be strange though. It's just for a few days and only while he isn't patrolling. It's not going to be that long then. I turn invisible. So I guess I should find Min-droid then.
